

SCLMA President's Message

Dr Jon Harper

FIRST SCLMA CLINICAL MEETING FOR 2025 -
THURSDAY 27 FEBRUARY 2025

As we round out another year, and I complete my first year as president, I would like to express my sincere gratitude to everyone involved in supporting the Sunshine Coast Local Medical Association. The last twelve months have been a steep learning curve for me, and it is only now that I truly understand all the hard work and goodwill that goes on in the background to keep the SCLMA running.

Apart from our super-human administrator, Jo Bourke, we also have a team of people volunteering their time attending our management committee meetings and ensuring smooth running of our monthly clinical meetings. And then there are the local businesses that continue to support the SCLMA through our newsletter. I feel very fortunate to be part of a such a valuable community organisation.

As the year comes to a close, my thoughts turn to Christmas and time off work and sitting in the pool with a large ice-cold glass of Sunshine and Sons Dry Gin with a dusting of tonic water. In an age when emails ping on our phones twenty-four hours a day, it can be hard to switch off. But I hope you are all able to take some time off this holiday period. I'm sure you deserve it.

This time of year, when I look around the world, I often reflect on how fortunate we are to live in a country without conflict. The Coles carpark is the closest we get to a war zone. We can work, send our kids to school, walk our dogs, all without fear of dropped bombs or armed militias on street corners. I can't imagine what it must be like trying to celebrate Christmas with friends and family while there are daily threats to your safety.

I am grateful for the stability of our government and that our health system, though imperfect, supports a good number of doctors, nurses and allied health professionals that allow our community to access often excellent healthcare.

I know that many of you extend your kindness to others beyond the consultation room. Many health practitioners give up time and money to help those who are doing it tough. There are several organisations on the Coast who do great work and are always grateful for more support, such as Orange Sky, IFYS, Everyday Foundation, Salvation Army, to name just a few.

Merry Christmas and a happy New Year!

Jon Harper

Cancer Care Noosa

Improving Cancer Care on the Sunshine Coast from December 2024

Approximately 1 in 2 Queenslanders are expected to be diagnosed with cancer by the age of 85. The Sunshine Coast, in particular, has one of the highest cancer incidences in Queensland, with around 4,152 new cases diagnosed annually. Given the region's significant population growth and ageing demographic, the need for enhanced healthcare facilities is critical.

Cancer Care Associates (CCA), an Australian-owned oncology services provider, is dedicated to delivering exceptional cancer care through its six treatment centres across New South Wales. With a focus on providing high-quality oncology treatments in regional areas, in December, CCA is set to expand into Queensland with the opening of Cancer Care Noosa, being the first of three planned centres in the state. Cancer Care Noosa has been designed as a comprehensive health facility, prioritising patient comfort and convenience at all stages of development. The centre will bring together a multidisciplinary team of oncology specialists and allied health providers who share the commitment of offering personalized health care, advanced treatments and technologies, to ensure the best possible outcomes for patients during and after treatment.

Dr. Debra Furniss

Radiation Oncologist & Medical Director

MBChB, MRCP (UK), FRCR (UK), MSc(Oncology), FRANZCR

Dr. Debra Furniss, a radiation oncologist with over a decade of experience treating patients on the Sunshine Coast, has recently joined the CCA team as Medical Director for Queensland. 'I am thrilled to be part of this incredible facility. Ensuring high-quality care is available from one location, close to home, is crucial for patients and can help alleviate some of the anxiety and stress associated with a cancer diagnosis,' Dr. Furniss stated.

The region's only comprehensive cancer care facility will offer access to affordable cancer care services without a waitlist, including radiation oncology, medical oncology, clinical trials and research, oncology pharmacy, pathology and lymphoedema clinic, with a private breast clinic opening in 2025.

For more information, phone 07 5293 7200 or visit cancercare.com.au/clinics/cancer-care-noosa/

Opening December 2024

Cancer Care Noosa, the region's only comprehensive oncology centre, will offer:

- Radiation oncology
- Medical oncology
- Oncology pharmacy
- Clinical trials and research
- Pathology
- Local specialists you know and trust
- Lymphoedema nurse practitioner clinic
- Specialist consulting
- Easy access and 150 car parks

New: Virtual Emergency Care Service

The Virtual Emergency Care Service (VECS) provides Queensland GPs with access to specialist emergency medicine advice by telephone or live streamed videoconference. The VECS Emergency Medicine Physicians can assist you with advice, support, and access to HHS services.

- This service is available to GPs across Queensland and can be accessed as either a consultation about a patient or a joint consultation with the patient.
- Advice and support are available for any patient with any condition.
- The VECS EM Physicians can help you manage your patient in the community by:
 - Providing advice for ongoing management
 - Facilitating access to HHS based community services such as community nurses and Hospital in the Home.
 - Facilitating access to an outpatient specialist review.

The VECS EM Physicians can consult with you to assist in navigation to access other local services:

- Urgent outpatient review in Rapid Access Clinic or sub-specialty telephone advice.
- "Direct to bed" admission in Hospital in the Home or subspecialty inpatient services where local pathways are in place.

For life threatening emergencies call triple zero (000) and request Ambulance Services. The VECS is not intended to be used for patients experiencing a life-threatening emergency.

How to access the VECS: Call 1300 847 833 Monday to Sunday 8am -10pm.

Cessation of surveillance colonoscopies for over 75-year-olds

In line with Cancer Council guidelines, surveillance colonoscopy in those >75 years should be considered based on age, co-morbidity and the preference of the patient.

It is a recommendation from the Statewide Service Implementation Standard that the Hospital and Health Service should cease routine colonoscopies after the age of 75 years. This is in keeping with similar established practice for the National Bowel Cancer Screening Program. This does not prevent GPs from requesting a colonoscopy for this patient group based on clinical need.

As the demand for our service is increasing, the Endoscopy department will no longer include this cohort of patients within our surveillance program. So that these patients aren't missed and/or appropriately assessed, we will be returning them to the usual GP for review and management.

This decision follows evidence suggesting that ongoing surveillance may no longer provide significant benefit for this age group, especially when weighed against the risks associated with repeated procedures.

Thank you for your ongoing support and cooperation in ensuring the best possible care for these patients. Should you have any questions or need further clarification please reach out to the GPLO team.

Local improvements to GP Smart Referrals

The Sunshine Coast Hospital and Health Service (SCHHS) is committed to the efficiency and effectiveness of referral management and submission processes.

We are undertaking a review to improve and streamline these functions for GP Smart Referral (GPSR) users. The aim is to better inform and guide clinical care, ensuring patients are referred to the right location the first time and provide referrers with greater visibility of estimated waiting times.

This initiative aims to reduce administrative burden on GPs, whilst ensuring timely patient care and improve overall communication between primary and secondary care providers.

What does this mean for GPs?

- Service names: when searching for services in GPSR you may notice a name change eg. 'Children's and Adolescents Clinic – General Paediatrics' is streamlined to 'General Paediatric'.
- Constraint details: services now have additional information to assist with referral submission.
- Clinical disciplines: are easier to locate by enhancing the 'searchability' through the linkage of additional treated conditions.
- Waitlist times: for each Tier 2 non-admitted service are now available to help guide discussions with patients before making a referral.
- HealthPathways: clinical disciplines listed in GPSR are linked to the HealthPathway service page relevant to the discipline.

GPSR is the SCHHS preferred method for referral lodgement with timely acknowledgement receipts, linked referral criteria, request for advice services and the ability to track patient's specialist outpatient care.

Carpal tunnel syndrome: nerve conduction studies not mandatory

Although nerve conduction studies (NCS) and USS are helpful confirmation studies, carpal tunnel syndrome (CTS) is a clinical diagnosis, and these studies are not mandatory to initiate a referral.

Ordering these tests is costly and may delay access to care. Please perform a sensory examination, motor examination, and consider provocative tests. See HealthPathways page Carpal Tunnel Syndrome - Community HealthPathways Sunshine Coast & Gympie

If after examination and consideration of differential diagnosis, uncertainty of CTS diagnosis remains, a NCS may be considered.

Maternity expo

We hosted a community maternity expo at the Nambour RSL 10th October 2024 to introduce the Sunshine Coast Health team and some of our partners. There were presentations on maternity care options- including our new publicly funded home birth service, and information on preconception and postnatal care.

BOOST FOR WOMEN'S HEALTH WITH NEWLY OPENED OUTPATIENT HYSTEROSCOPY SERVICE

Sunshine Coast Health has treated its first patients in a newly opened Outpatient Hysteroscopy Clinic, meaning women who require the procedure will now have far less disruption to their daily lives.

In the past, Sunshine Coast Health would do around 300 hysteroscopies a year under general anaesthetic, but now it can be offered under local anaesthetic. It means rather than having to come into hospital for 6 to 14 hours, women can be in and out within a couple of hours. Sunshine Coast

Health Obstetrics and Gynaecology Senior Registrar Dr Adeline Foo was part of the team spearheading the new service.

"In terms of pain relief during the procedure there is plenty we can offer, starting from the local anaesthetics, gas, the green whistle, we encourage women to take Panadol and Nurofen before the procedure, we provide heat packs, we offer different music choices and playlists and lastly 'vocal local' I call it – we will keep talking to you until you're sick of us," Dr Foo said.

Carmen Rashford was one of the first few patients to utilise the service.

She said it was a relief knowing she would be in and out within an hour and could drive herself home.

"I was extremely nervous but the pain, it was just like a pap smear. When they started the doctor talked through everything they were going to do, she made the nurses clear a little spot so I could see the TV, they started playing some music and were talking about life and they did the procedure, and it was okay."

The Outpatient Hysteroscopy Clinic is based out of Nambour General Hospital and the equipment, including five specialised hysteroscopy cameras, was funded by hospital charity Wishlist.

GYMPIE HOSPITAL ED OPENS SECOND TRIAGE SPACE TO HELP PATIENT FLOW

A second triage room has been developed in Gympie Hospital's Emergency Department, to help patients be seen faster and assist staff managing increasing numbers of presentations.

The room has been fit out with a bed and necessary equipment, to support efficient flow through the Emergency Department, which has seen rapid growth in the number of presentations.

"We've got the primary triage already, but this is really helpful for those extended assessments to make sure our initial triage is the right triage for that patient and identifying any risk factors as well," Gympie Hospital Emergency Department Nurse Unit Manager Samantha Ward said.

Additional nursing staff have also been allocated to the waiting room, to assist with timely assessments and keep an eye on people's conditions.

HR UPDATE - RIGHT TO DISCONNECT LAWS

As of 26th August 2024, new HR laws have come into place for non-small business employers (these laws will come into effect on 26th August 2025 for small businesses). These new laws are related to employees now having the right to refuse to monitor, read or respond to contact (or attempted contact) made by their employer outside their working hours, unless doing so is unreasonable.

When working out whether an employee's refusal is unreasonable, the following factors must be considered:

- The reason for the contact
- How the contact is made and how disruptive it is to the employee
- How much the employee is compensated or paid extra for being available to perform work during the period they're contacted, or working additional hours outside their ordinary hours of work
- The employee's role in the business and level of responsibility
- The employee's personal circumstances, including caring responsibilities.

It will be unreasonable for an employee to refuse to read, monitor or respond if the contact or attempted contact is required by law.

It is advised to discuss out of hours contact with your staff members. Tips for this include having a discussion relating to:

- When the employee may be expected to monitor, read or respond to contact
- Pay and conditions that may relate to out of hours contact
- Preferred out of hours contact channels (Eg if there is a serious issue, an employee may prefer to be called on their personal phone)
- Who needs to be aware of out of hours contact arrangements
- When arrangements should be reviewed

Be careful – the reference to 'contact' could include a range of communication channels including calls, emails, texts, social media and messaging services. This rule also covers 'third parties' which could include clients, suppliers, staff from other businesses, or members of the public.

So, what do we take from this? Don't contact your staff members requesting a response if the matter can wait until the next business day.

AMA QUEENSLAND UPDATE

AMA Queensland CEO Dr Brett Dale and President Dr Nick Yim

Both major parties made tackling our healthcare workforce crisis one of their top priorities in the October state election. Queensland now has a new government, and we look forward to working with them on implementing their commitments for Queensland's health system.

We congratulate LNP Leader David Crisafulli on his election as Premier and, at the same time, thank the outgoing Premier Steven Miles and Health Minister Shannon Fentiman for their efforts for the Queensland community.

We will be urging Premier Crisafulli and new Health Minister Tim Nicholls to retain initiatives put in place by the outgoing government, including workforce attraction incentives for regional doctors, grants to assist junior doctors to train as GPs and assistance for regional GPs to upskill in obstetrics and anaesthetics – skills that are critically needed in regional Queensland.

PAYROLL TAX EXEMPTION

The new government is keeping its election promise to exempt GPs from payroll tax, with Treasurer David Janetzki confirming that he has instructed Treasury to begin the process. We had our first meeting with Minister Janetzki on 13 November, at which we emphasised the need to extend the exemption to all private medical practices.

Following three years of fierce advocacy from AMA Queensland, both major political parties committed to an exemption for GPs, with Premier Crisafulli pledging to begin the legal process in his first week. This is a welcome move that will give GPs and patients certainty.

However, non-GP private specialists remained concerned. They are still not eligible for the amnesty and have no certainty that they will not be hit with crippling retrospective bills out of the blue.

We will continue to call for all private medical practices to be exempt from this new interpretation of the tax.

PILL TESTING AT SCHOOLIES

The LNP's decision to listen to health experts and proceed with pill testing at this year's Schoolies will improve the safety of Queensland school leavers.

Prior to the election, the LNP proposed to repeal Queensland's drug diversion laws, going against the advice of medical, health, legal and law enforcement experts.

This included the cancellation of pill testing at this year's Schoolies.

History shows that experimenting with substances, especially during young adulthood with a lack of knowledge around drug and alcohol use, can lead to harm and death.

Early results of Queensland pill testing services indicate the benefits of education, with 16 per cent of people choosing to dispose of their substance after testing and a discussion with a health professional. A further 25 per cent also indicated they would reduce their use as a result of accessing the service.

We called on the Premier to reconsider, and welcomed his announcement that pill testing will go ahead this year.

It is promising that the LNP has chosen to commence their term in government with such a sensible health decision and we will continue to work with them to ensure this extends to drug diversion laws and permanent pill testing centres.

We are in a cost of living crisis and people are turning to the internet for cheaper medicines. But what we are finding at these pill testing services is that these medicines are not what people thought they were buying.

FLUORIDATED WATER

Dangerous misinformation about fluoride in water supplies is causing unnecessary fear and concern in communities and leading to backlash against medical and health experts who advocate for fluoridation.

In our previous update, we shared our correspondence with Cairns and Gympie Regional Councils, urging them to ensure community water fluoridation.

Our members continue to raise concerns about increasing prevalence and severity of oral disease, particularly among children, and the simultaneous increase in fluoride misinformation.

We commend our doctors for consistently advocating for water fluoridation as a form of preventive health, despite the personal backlash.

Water fluoridation is one of the safest, easiest and most effective methods to reduce the prevalence and severity of oral disease. It has been described as one of the 10 great public health measures of the 20th century and actually saves money.

AMA Queensland has repeatedly called on the state government to reintroduce mandatory fluoridation across the state.

Most recently, we have been working in collaborating with the Australian Dental Association Queensland to advocate for the retention and reinstatement of fluoridation in all LGAs.

We continue to urge Councils to act in the interests of their community by reinstating water fluoridation to ensure all Queensland communities have health equity.

ELECTION COMMITMENTS SCORECARD 2024

AMA Queensland released its Election Commitments Scorecard prior to the recent state election, rating the main health promises from the major parties against our 17 priority areas.

It found that both major parties had made important, publicly identifiable health commitments in 13 of the 17 priority areas.

Visit the campaign page

Both Labor and the LNP committed to major growth in our healthcare workforce by 2032.

Labor promised to maintain grants to encourage more doctors to specialise as GPs, while the LNP promised a regional approach to fast-track high school students into health careers.

Read our media release

Both sides promised no change to existing termination of pregnancy laws and we will hold the LNP to this commitment. We are disappointed that the LNP is opposing Queensland's current drug diversion laws. This is about treating a health issue rather than criminalising people and the three-strike drug law supports this. People are not eligible under the law if they are also committing a crime. We will continue to urge the new government to reconsider its last-minute short-sighted drug policies. AMA Queensland looks forward to working with the new state government on implementing its commitments for Queensland's health system.

Q3 SCORECARD

Our scorecard outlines our extensive work to support and advance the medical profession in Queensland and protect patient health.

In Q3 2024 we had 1,678 member engagements and reached an accumulated media audience of more than 16.5 million in the delivery of complex policy advocacy to achieve positive change.

We are proud to work with Queensland doctors to create better outcomes for our communities.

- Have been diagnosed with Coeliac Disease.
- Have a BMI of 17 to 35 kg/m².
- Maintained a GF diet for at least 12 months.
- Willing to consume food containing traces of gluten 3 times per week for 15 weeks.

If eligible for the study, your participation is expected to last approximately 19 weeks.

Potential treatment for early stages of Alzheimer's disease

We are working on a Phase 2b trial to assess the safety, efficacy, and tolerability of a potential treatment for people with mild to moderate dementia due to Alzheimer's disease.

We are calling for participants:

- aged 50 years or older with mild to moderate Alzheimer's dementia
- able to attend 12 visits at our Birtinya clinic and be willing to provide blood samples over a 12-month period.

Potential treatment for hypertension in adults with kidney disease

We are working on a new study with the potential to reduce high cardiovascular risk and hypertension by inhibiting a signal produced in the liver.

We are calling for participants:

- aged 18 years and older
- who have Chronic Kidney Disease Stage 3b (eGFR 30-44 ml/min/1.73m²)
- being treated for hypertension on stable therapy with 2 to 4 antihypertensive medications
- able to attend up to 7 visits at our Birtinya clinic and 1 phone call over approximately 14 months.

Potential treatment to reduce dementia-related agitation

We are working on a new trial targeting dementia-related agitation. Researchers will assess whether administration of the investigational potential treatment reduces agitation compared to a placebo.

We are calling for participants:

- aged between 50 and 90 years, have been diagnosed with dementia and experience significant agitation two or more times per week on average
- with a consenting caregiver/study partner who is available to attend all study visits in person, and is willing and capable of providing accurate information in relation to the participant's behavioural symptoms and daily diary completion
- able to attend up to 5 clinic visits and one phone call at our clinic in Birtinya over approximately 10 weeks.

Initial Assessment and Referral Decision Support Tool (IAR-DST) Training

Matching patient needs with appropriate care levels – a holistic approach to mental health assessment and referral.

What is IAR-DST?

The (IAR DST) is an initiative of the Australian Department of Health and Aged Care. The tool supports general practitioners and clinicians to connect people who are seeking mental health support with the most appropriate level of care. The free tool was created in consultation with an expert advisory group including lived experience and industry representatives, universities, and peak mental health bodies.

The eight domains encourage exploration of the person's internal experiences (primary domains) and the external experiences and resources available to the person (contextual domains). Based on the assessment and clinical judgement, the person seeking support is matched to an evidence-based intervention.

IAR-DST

Why use the IAR-DST?

1. Promotes patient-centred care and aims to improve patient outcomes

The IAR-DST tool guides clinical judgment and creates a discussion with the patient about choice and preference for mental health services, empowering them by being involved in the decision-making process.

2. Appropriate use of services

Improved communication with patients ensures they are matched to the most appropriate service for their needs, leading to more efficient allocation of healthcare resources.

3. Improved delivery of primary health care services

The IAR-DST tool provides a standardised framework for all Commonwealth-funded mental health services to communicate assessment and referral information consistently using a shared language.

4. Enhanced clinical assessment and decision-making

Provides a more comprehensive approach than existing tools by using an evidence-informed framework leading to better patient outcomes.

The IAR-DST assists with identifying the most appropriate treatment intensity a patient needs.

A recent snapshot by Country to Coast Queensland (CCQ) reports¹ the majority of patients (78.5 percent), receiving low intensity psychological interventions experienced a significant improvement, whereas 42.5 percent of those receiving psychological therapies did not experience significant change. Furthermore, when compared with other states Queensland patients are behind on finishing their mental health treatment with only 30 percent completing the full episode of care (benchmark of 50.1 percent).

MEDIA RELEASE

Monday, 16 December 2024

Stronger mental health commission must drive improved coordination

A strengthened Australia Mental Health Commission should drive the collaboration and coordination between governments that is desperately needed to improve the delivery of mental healthcare, the Australian Medical Association said today.

The AMA's submission to a Department of Health and Aged Care consultation on strengthening the commission, says true reform of the mental health sector requires all governments working together. AMA President Dr Danielle McMullen said the AMA has been advocating for many years for a co-ordinated whole-of-government approach for both mental and public health.

"A co-ordinated whole-of-government approach with integrated data systems is needed to avoid jurisdictions working in silos," Dr McMullen said.

"We need to transform how mental healthcare and suicide prevention is managed in Australia and this starts with the right systems in place," Dr McMullen said.

Dr McMullen said the Productivity Commission recommended in 2020 that an interjurisdictional, special-purpose mental health council be created that included federal, state and territory government health (or mental health) ministers, plus ministers of selected social policy portfolios on 18-month rotations. The commission recommended that the council report regularly to health ministers.

"However, this body was never established with mental health ministers rarely meeting," Dr McMullen said.

"Mental health ministers came together after the Westfield Bondi tragedy, and following the meeting promised to work together to improve access to mental health services through a re-affirmed commitment to delivering the National Mental Health and Suicide Prevention Agreement.

"While that's a good step in the right direction and ministers committed to meeting twice a year, this is not nearly enough to ensure continued transparent and coordinated efforts to address the crisis in mental healthcare in Australia."

The AMA's submission also says accountability standards are essential to ensure Australia's mental health system is robust and equitable.

"We would like data reported from the jurisdictions to the NMHC so that patient wait times can be tracked and reported," Dr McMullen said.

"The ability to track patient waiting times for access to mental health services will help ensure programs can be adjusted so that patients are getting the help they need when they need it."
